

Technocel Announces the Ear Vibe™ - the World's First Stereo Headset that Vibrates with the Music

This ultimate listening accessory allows you to FEEL your tunes by vibrating to the beat of the music.

LAS VEGAS CES, South Hall Upper Level Booth # 30913 – (January 5, 2010) – Technocel, a leading accessory solution provider with over 11,000 products for the wireless market, announces their latest innovation, the Technocel Ear Vibe™, the first stereo headset that vibrates to the beat of your music, providing you with the ultimate music listening accessory. The Ear Vibe™ will literally vibrate when your tunes hit the low frequency bass, taking your listening experience to the next level. It features high-fidelity stereo sound and includes a microphone for hands free voice calls for clear conversation and music. The Ear Vibe™ is compatible with most mobile phones that have music playing capability, as well as all mp3 players including the Apple iPod. Ideal for music, movies and gaming, the Ear Vibe™ will be available starting January 15, 2010 for MSRP of $29.99 at www.technocel.com

“We are thrilled to have created the first vibrating stereo headset” says Rami Rostami, Technocel CEO and Founder. “We hope to bring all media experiences to a higher level of enjoyment with the Ear Vibe.”
