SIMI VALLEY, CA – (January 4, 2010) – Technocel, a leading accessory solution provider with over 11,000 products for the wireless market, is proud to announce that their latest innovations, the Technocel PowerPak™ XT and PowerPak™ DUO, two portable battery and home charger all-in-one solutions. Both new versions feature larger batteries than their prior model and the PowerPak™ DUO will feature dual USB ports. These powerful recharging solutions will replace all your chargers with a single universal solution that will safely power your USB devices at home, in the car, at the airport, or anywhere else. The PowerPak™ XT will be available for MSRP of $49.99 and the PowerPak™ DUO will be available for MSRP of $59.99 at Technocel.com on January 31, 2010.

“We are proud to introduce the 1600mAh and dual USB port PowerPak versions which will provide the ultimate all-in-one charging solution to iPhone and USB device users, giving their mobile devices instant power, anytime, anywhere” says Rami Rostami, Technocel CEO and Founder. “For CES 2010 we will have a special PowerPak Charging Station hub at our booth for any attendees needing a battery boost.”

Providing the extra juice when you need it, the PowerPak™ will recharge your handheld device at the same time as it recharges itself via the wall outlet. Features include:

- PowerPak™ Duo includes dual USB ports and a 2500mAh internal Lithium Ion battery for 6 hours or more of extra talk time*
- PowerPak™ XT features a single USB port and a 1600mAh battery for up to 4 ½ hours of extra talk time*
- Both versions are easy to read with the LED indicator lights which reveal the remaining capacity of the PowerPak™ battery reserve with the press of a button
- Both include interchangeable tips that provide compatibility for 95% of all handheld USB devices
- Both versions are compatible with any other USB cable that might have been provided with your wireless device

Actual talk time depends on handset, network, location and environment.*
